

OrderPoint

Airtight management of title order production

Order management that affords you flexibility, visibility and control

OrderPoint is designed to provide you convenience in order placement and delivery of title search and production orders, online order tracking, and a communication channel to our regional production facilities.

Order standard title production reports and custom search services, including hard-to-find back plant records that pre-date electronic plants. OrderPoint is your single point of command and control. It's designed to streamline management of services outsourced to Property Insight's national production network.

Connect with our vast resources

OrderPoint is your gateway to a network of title production specialists, online data resources and extensive back plant records.

Use OrderPoint to support your daily production activity, fulfill special requests in markets where you do not have plant access, or access specialized support services such as back plant research and document retrieval. We serve as an extension of your in-house production team.

When you use OrderPoint, your orders are immediately placed into production and closely tracked to ensure that there are no impediments to timely completion.

Add speed and efficiency to title production

By automating order placement, production and delivery, we fulfill your orders more efficiently.

If there is a question or issue relating to an order, you will be alerted through OrderPoint, where you can interact with the production centers responsible for fulfillment.

You will receive e-mail messages with links to completed orders on our server, or attached as a PDF.

OrderPoint adapts to the way you do business

OrderPoint can be configured to support your preferences for order types, order tracking, reporting and notification, and fulfillment specifications.

You can order services through the integrated OrderPoint center in TitlePoint® and TitlePoint Xpress®. You can also place and track orders through our orderpointservices.com. We can also integrate OrderPoint's full functionality with your existing order management and production system using Web Services / XML. We even accept Fax orders.

OrderPoint Web center, located at

OrderPoint provides the ultimate in convenience and flexibility

Coordinate through a single contact and order placement point for title order production. Choose from standard and custom title order production and research services. Command local experts knowledgeable in title data and order production. Monitor orders in real time. Communicate with production centers on order status and fulfillment.
